DB10 team summoners war. Db10 teams.

Swift runes will likely be your set of choice for Konamiya, although Violent runes will allow him to spam his skills more often (though they do raise his rune requirements a bit). His biggest drawback is likely the fact that he's a natural 5-star, which means he'll likely be locked out for most players. His usefulness extends to Dragon's Lair, where he allows his teammates to lap the boss, and get as many hits in as possible. For more information submitting your own team compositions, see here. Here is another example of a team that works well for DB10. Overall, you should aim for the same stats as the GB10, but increase the attack speed and HP a little more. Swift rune sets are great for helping him stack turns up and playing a shutdown role with his 3rd skill. Late game players who can afford the higher stat requirements will likely opt for Violent runes. This allows his party members turn boosting and spamability, which is a tremendous help in any situation. He makes an excellent complimentary monster for Dragon's Lair, able to cover for the odd time Veromos fails to cleanse before an incoming boss attack, while providing extra turns for the rest of his team. Keep in mind that his second skill does sacrifice HP for each use, so good healing and support is necessary. Another little thing, as this is a fire element boss, you'll have to favour water monsters and avoid wind monsters. This allows Spectra to immediately land a slow debuff on the boss and his crystals to help lock them down early. Those opting for a pure support role should try to load up on as much HP and defense as possible to ensure survivability. To add your own unique rune builds, see this page. It is rune as Quick/Blade in VIT/TXCRT%/PV%. Plus, his water typing ensures that he can take a hit or two from the boss even without heavy investment in HP or defense. The two crystals are as follows: Toxic crystal: inflicts continuous damage on all enemies for 3 turns;Immunity Crystal : removes the harmful effect on the boss and grants immunity for 3 turns. Spectra can either be runed as a supporter or as a hybrid supporter/DPS unit. The different rewards of the DB10 Once DB10 is defeated, it will then be possible to obtain 5-6 star runes. Swift sets are good for early usage, although players should switch over to Violent sets as quickly as possible to allow for multi-debuff cleanse. Violent Focus Will Nemesis Endure Spd, Hp, Acc End game Violent attacker ? His third works well on early monster waves while also including an AOE slow effect which will help keep the boss stage crystals in check. She is rune in Fast/Energy in VIT/PV%/PV%;Sigmarus : freezes enemies and puts a lot of damage on the boss. As a DPS monster with speed scaling attacks, his main focus should be on speed, attack, critical rate, and critical damage. Swift runes are the preferred choice in most instances, although Violent runes are an excellent choice later on when it can be afforded. Verdehile is one of the kings of PVE monsters, boasting ATB boosts on each of his attacks. Ensure that the team AI is set to target the boss by default. Those opting for a support/DPS role should prioritize attack, critical rate, and critical damage to giver her attacks as much punch as possible. She can block the reinforcement effects of enemies. It must be played first; Megan : She increases the ATB and defence of your allies for 2 turns. Speed helps maximize turn potential, allowing him to apply his ATB and slow debuffs more often, and HP helps prevent him from killing himself from using his second skill. In either case, speed should be your number one priority, as it allows maximal turn boosting for himself and teammates. 3% for 5-star runes and 15. DPS monsters should go last to take advantage of the setup by party members. The player can obtain metamorphosis stones and summoning stones. Verdehile[] Header text Notice: Generic builds may be added from this pre-approved list, with possible minor changes to suit the monster. Speed helps increase heal potential, and accuracy is important for helping strips buffs and land his important defense break. Use your own judgement. Veromos[] Veromos acts as the backbone of this team, bringing constant party wide debuff removal, a must have to prevent early team wipes in the boss stage. 7% for 6-star runes. Second wave of DB10 You will have to face the mini-boss of this dungeon: Zaiross. You have to be careful with the two crystals next to the boss, but also with the dragon. Those opting for a support based role should focus on supporter stats like speed, HP, and defense. For this, we will list the monsters that are essential for a first success. Whether you opt for the speed stat bonus or turn spamability will depend on what you have access to. DB12 is waiting for you right after you've completed this stage! Edit Team Composition Page This is an outline page for a team composition. HP and defense also help tremendously with survivability. His balanced stat distribution means that he can function as either a supporter or a DPS monster (or even a hybrid build). Swift runes are his primary set, as that 25% speed stat bonus helps Bernard get over 200 speed easily without much investment in rune substats. This team largely depends on Veromos for constant debuff removal, and Belladeon for buff removal and healing support. The first three stats in particular are important to ensure maximum damage per hit. Swift Focus Energy Endure Nemesis Spd, Hp, Acc All game Violent supporter ? In addition, the damage increases according to the number of harmful effects on the enemies;disaster : if a tower is destroyed, the dragon counterattacks the responsible enemy with a deadly attack;Dragon's Fury (passive) : greatly increases the attack when your HP is below 30%. The main stats are typical supporter stats like speed, HP, defense, and accuracy. Spectra[] Spectra brings an AOE ATB and speed debuff, helping to keep early monster waves at bay, as well as the boss and his support crystals. Useful for ? Swift and Violent sets are both excellent choices. List of runes to obtain in DB10 Violent Runes (4 sets): Increases the chance to have an extra turn by 22%;focus runes (2 sets): increases accuracy by 20%; Guardian Runes (2 sets) : increases defence by 15%;Runes of Endurance (2 sets) : increases resistance by 20%;Protection Runes (2 sets) : confers a shield representing 15% of the monster's HP for 3 turns;Runes of Vengeance (2 sets) : Increases the chance to counterattack by 15%. Sigmarus can realistically be subbed out for any good water DPS monster. A Violent set is also a good choice, like always, although this requires a higher standard for runes to make up for loss of damage per hit. It is rune in Blade/Fatal in ATK%/DCC%/ATK%;Belladeon : Allows you to increase the ATB and HP of your allies while putting debuffs on the enemy. Strengths[] Fairly easy to set up using monsters widely available to most people. HP and defense are also good to have for survivability, although his water typing means he can survive a hit or two from the boss without much investment in these stats. It is rune in Violent/Energy in VIT/PV%/PV%;Veromos : It allows, as in GB10, to control enemies and place DoT on enemies. This last floor still contains four vaults, one of which has a mini-boss: Zaiross. Most team comps follow along the lines of Verdehile (L), Veromos, Belladeon, Spectra/Megan, and Sigmarus/Any DPS monster. Having him move first will result in ATB overcharging, resulting in a waste to his boost early on. It's combination of support Buffs and Debuffs ensures minimal damage is taken, with an extra slot to allow for either a good damage dealer or more support, depending on what's needed. Swift or Violent sets are both viable, although players should switch to Violent runes as soon as possible to maximize turn potential. Fatal or rage sets are both great for those looking for DPS based builds. Accuracy will also be useful as he does have a single target stun on his main attack skill, which can be useful against early monster waves. Both her attacks also include speed scaling, allowing players to focus on speed without giving up damage. General turn order should be Spectra/Megan -> Veromos/Belladeon -> DPS monster like Sigmarus. A 3 turn cooldown means he can provide healing and debuff removal on a fairly consistent basis, and Resurge is an excellent support skill, able to instantly give whatever party member you target a turn instantly (including himself). Once the GB10 is defeated, you'll need to be brave enough to take on the most powerful dragon in Summoners War (not even Zaiross can match it). Minimal investments in HP and defense will help alleviate his inherent squishiness. In either case, accuracy should also be reasonably high to ensure her chances of being resisted are as low as possible. Though his wind typing puts him at a disadvantage in floor 10, his turn boosting alone makes him a great complimentary monster to round out your team of five, where he will hopefully not be relied on to carry things himself. Fatal and Rage or also great to have for their stat bonuses. General support ? This means that you will have to play quickly to control them. Poseidon[] Poseidon is an excellent choice for Dragon's Lair. Accuracy will also be useful to ensure that his debuffs will actually stick against his targets. The strategy is to have monsters that give immunity and remove the beneficial effects on the boss. Accuracy helps him land his debuffs more often. His stat priorities will depend on his role on the team. Like GB10, these are the strongest in the game and a good sorting will be necessary depending on the player's level. Accuracy will help him freeze enemies more often, and land his attack debuff (which is useful for ensuring team survival). The DB10 Boss in Summoners War Here, a completely different level awaits the player. Fatal Swift Blade Will Spd, Atk, CR, CD All game Advanced attacker ? Areas of use Useful for Rune/stat requirements Dragon's Lair Mid-End game Medium This is a good starting team for those who are making the transition to Dragon's Lair after having farmed Giant's Keep considerably. Megan can then immediately follow up with an ATB boost and some buffs, or strip the boss' immunity buff to allow Belladeon to inflict a defense break. This team utilizes monsters which are easily obtainable for most players in the game, using mid end runes from farming Giant's Keep or lower levels of Dragon's Lair. In either case, accuracy will be important to ensure that his debuffs land. Here is the list of his attacks: flash of fire: fires an arrow of fire at the enemy;rain of fire : burns enemies and inflicts continuous damage for 3 turns with a 25% chance ;Fire Breath : Attacks all enemies and increases the pause time of the enemies' skills to the maximum. For pure support builds, players should focus on speed, HP/defense, and accuracy. General usage[] This team is designed to run on auto to ensure as minimal involvement as possible. He is quite squishy however, so some investment in HP and defense is necessary. Verdehile : Increases the attack gauge of all allies by 20% for each critical hit. Violent runes are more optimal due to turn spamability, but rune requirements are higher to make up for the loss of the bonus. Despair takes advantage of his two AOE skills, giving him a good chance of stunning enemies and added CC potential. However, running him this way does require a higher standard of runes for him and his team mates, so opt for a supporter build if your dungeon runs are already shaky. If opting for a hybrid DPS role, players should invest in critical rate and critical damage to help maximize damage from his second skill. Hwa[] Build 4-Set(s) 2-Set(s) Stat Priorities ? Summoners War DB10 is the second big challenge for a new player. It is also possible toobtain other rewards such as 2 and 3 star Arcenmon, mystical scrolls or symbols of harmony, chaos and transcendence. Megan[] Konamiya is an excellent cleanser who also provides secondary healing support for the party. To be prepared, you will have to farm the GB10 to get the runes you need to win. Swift runes provide a nice 25% speed bonus, and are largely accessible for newcomers. They are also hard to obtain for most newcomers. Typical DPS stats like attack, critical rate, critical damage, and speed should be emphasized. Weaknesses[] Still mostly inaccessible to those who haven't spent much time farming Giant's Keep or lower floors of Dragon's Lair. Speed should be her primary focus, regardless of what role you wish for her to play. With enough speed, her passive ensures she can lock down targets almost indefinitely. Accuracy will also be useful, although his wind typing means he will likely miss half of his debuff attempts against the boss, so don't worry if you can't get his accuracy high enough for this floor. Core team[] This team relies on ample support and good team synergy to survive through the whole dungeon floor, including against the boss. Violent runes are great for turn spamability, although once again they add to his stat requirements. Accuracy is important for helping him stun monsters and land DOTs, with around 55% being a good number. His buff removal in particular is especially useful for removing the immunity buff that gets cast on the boss. Violent Blade Revenge Will Spd, Atk, CR, CD End game Swift attacker ? His leader skill also brings an HP buff, which also aids in survivability. The main stats are typical supporter stats like speed, HP, defense, and accuracy. His critical rate must also be at 100% and no less, as his ATB boosts only take effect if he lands a critical rate. His only downside is that he's a natural 5-star, which means he'll likely be locked out for most players. Early attacker ? Swift or Violent sets both work well for Verdehile. This is a direct hitting team which focuses on killing the Dragon boss rather than targeting a Crystal. He is accompanied by two crystals and inflicts heavy damage. Flexible and easy to tweak based on individual preference and options. His one drawback is his status as a natural 4-star, making him difficult to obtain for most newcomers. Speed will be your primary focus, as this maximizes his own healing/cleansing, as well as boosting the number of times he can use Resurge. He has great natural bulk with over 11,000 HP and over 600 defense, and his water typing will ensure that he takes at least a few hits from the boss without much trouble. The drop rate for runes in DB10 is 84. Summoners War DB10 strategy We will now look at the strategy for defeating DB10 in Summoners War. In your quest for these new runes, you will have to face the DB10 (the last of the 10 stages) which is very annoying if the player does not have the right runes and monsters. Swift Blade Will Spd, Atk, CR, CD, Mid-End game Hwa is an excellent support/DPS monster, whose overall usefulness in PVE extends to Dragon's Lair as well. Although once the crystals are dead and only the dragon is left, it is easier to finish if there is a good support and a nuker left in the team. He also has an inherent cleanse, as he's able to transfer one debuff on himself to an enemy target. If Verdehile is included in the team, he should ideally be down the turn order so he can provide immediate turn replenishment. Early game players will likely opt for Swift runes since they are easier to obtain earlier on. Whether she is used as a pure supporter or a hybrid DPS monster, she makes an excellent choice for Dragon's Lair. His second skill hits like a truck, and can be used every other turn for near spamability. Variants[] If Verdehile can't be included, simply replace him with either Spectra or Megan. Swift sets will likely be his go-to for early game players due to the speed stat bonus, although Violent is once again a great choice for those who can afford the stat requirements as skill spamability is great to have for almost any monster. Here are the different attacks of the boss: furious roar : attacks all enemies and inflicts continuous damage for 3 turns. Taor[] Build 4-Set(s) 2-Set(s) Stat Priorities ? In addition, once the DB10 is finished in automatic, it will be possible to obtain a set of violent runes that will be needed in all circumstances. It is rune in Violent/Energy in VIT/PV%/PV%. Listed builds are provided for convenience only. Third wave of DB10 Once the mini-boss is killed, you will have to face five crystals again. As with wave one, they must be exterminated quickly so that the team involved does not take heavy damage. The faster he is, the more turns the rest of your team will get. Belladeon[] Belladeon acts as main healer in the team while also bringing some general support with his ATB boost, buff removal, and a source of defense break. Rage Blade Will Spd, Atk, CR, CD Mid-End game Violent attacker ? His water typing ensures that he can take a few more hits than most DPS monsters against the boss, and he has two attack skills which scale on enemy HP, making him an ideal DPS monster to bring in this dungeon. Speed will be your main concern with Bernard. Beyond that, focus on HP/defense for survivability if looking for more support, or attack/critical damage if looking to add some damage as well. Overall, this is a flexible team that can be built a variety of ways, depending on what each player needs. Beyond that, her stat priorities will largely depend on what your own priorities/play styles. Stat requirements will depend on whether you opt for pure support or a DPS/hybrid kind of role. He also brings a good source of damage with his second skill, which scales on enemy HP. His third skill brings AOE ATB reset and a slow debuff, allowing him to keep not only the boss but also the boss crystals in check. This helps ensure more turns for his teammates, which is important for safe and timely runs. Mostly reliable team with moderate rune requirements. Setup of floor makes 100% success rate difficult for most players without excellent runes. Options[] Sigmarus[] Sigmarus acts as the main source of damage against the early monster waves, as well as against the boss. Spectra, and Sigmarus are interchangeable with any of the monsters listed in the options category, depending on what you need. Now that you have all the cards in your hand to defeat him, don't wait any longer to defeat DB10 in Summoners War. Bernard[] Bernard is a great ATB booster and buffer whose usefulness carries over to Dragon's Lair as well. The Dragon's Lair in Summoners War As mentioned in our previous article about the Giant's Castel, the Cairos Dungeon allows you to obtain beautiful runes necessary for your progression in the game. Those opting for a DPS or hybrid role should focus on speed, attack, critical rate, and critical damage, with investments in HP and defense when available. Violent sets are also viable, although they raise the stat requirements, and generally are better off on other monsters. Speed in particular is important for getting the most out of his passive, which cleanses one debuff on him and his teammates each time he gets a turn. Thus, to defeat it, you will have to place immunities on the monsters and prevent the boss from having buffs. Farmable team for the DB10 of Summoners War There are many teams available to defeat the Dragon, but as a new player, it can be difficult to gather all the necessary monsters. Swift Blade Will Spd, Atk, CR, CD, Mid-End game Taor is an excellent DPS monster for Dragon's Lair. Here is an example of a fully farmable team for DB10 in Summoners War. First wave of DB10 In the first wave, you will have to face 4 crystals that will inflict heavy damage on the team. He also brings an AOE stun, which is helpful for keeping early monster waves at bay, and a source of DOT damage on his main attack, which helps bring an extra source of damage against the boss. Fatal or Rage sets are both acceptable, although Fatal sets are easier to obtain early on. Beyond that, HP and defense will help with survivability, although his water typing does provide some inherent protection against the boss.
